NURODYMAI

- Pasitikrinkite, ar testo lapuose nėra aiškiai matomo spausdinimo broko. Pastebėję praneškite mokytojui.
- Rašykite aiškiai ir įskaitomai. Galite rašyti pieštuku, tačiau galutiniai atsakymai turi būti parašyti parkeriu ar tušinuku. Jeigu suklydote, aiškiai perbraukite neteisingą atsakymą ir pažymėkite ar parašykite kitą.
Nesinaudokite koregavimo priemonėmis.
- Testą sudaro B1 lygio užduotys. Visas užduotis atlikite eilės tvarka.
- Pasirinkite ir atlikite po vieną iš dviejų pateiktų rašymo testo užduočių variantų.
- Atlikdami rašymo testo užduotis, naudokitės juodraščiu, kuris yra testo lapuose. Juodraštis nebus vertinamas, todėl pasilikite pakankamai laiko perrašyti savo darbą į švarraštį.
- Rašykite tik Jums skirtose vietose, nerašykite vertinimo įrašams (vertinimui) skirtose vietose.

I. KLAUSYMO TESTAS*Trukmė – 25 min. 20 taškų.

1 užduotis. (4 taškai. 1 taškas už kiekvieną teisingą atsakymą.) Išklauskite pokalbį apie atvykimą į Mančesterį ir trumpai (1–3 žodžiais) atsakykite į klausimus. Tekstą girdėsite du kartus.
0 atvejis – pavyzdys.

Hello and welcome to my blog. Now, I'm in the city of love, Paris! Studying pastry at Le Cordon Bleu!

LIFE IN ANOTHER COUNTRY

Today is my Birthday! I actually like celebrating other people's birthdays more than my own. So today instead of something silly, I thought I'd share something more personal to me about my life here in France. I hope you like it!

When you live in a country that is not your own, your life suddenly becomes a whirlwind. I was prepared for some ups and downs due to unfamiliarity and of course being homesick, but it's been more because of constant activity and new experiences.

When you're in your native country, you're doing things that you've been doing your whole life. You know the cultural norms, how to do all those easy little tasks you learned watching your parents do as you grew up, how to act in everyday situations, and just so much more. It's something you've learned through years and years...

When you move, you have to relearn all of those. Every little easy task becomes a bit of a struggle. Now that's not to say living in a different country, with a language you're not as familiar with as you like is bad. No! It's just different. And if you're up for it, a very good different. Silly silly completely normal things! Tasks that in the US would take me seconds, take minutes. Something easy can suddenly have multiple steps and take a lot longer than you first thought. I thought I was patient before I came here but now I have to be.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL VILLAGES IN EUROPE

Kuriame tekste apie tai kalbama?

0. A place for a great variety of activities B
1. A place for cartoon makers _____
2. A village mainly for walking _____
3. A village known for its skilled craftsmen _____
4. A village which was built to resist invasion _____
5. A village which might have lost its most beautiful part _____

Čia rašo
vertintojas

Europe is home to some of the most beautiful villages in the world.

A. Bibury, England

The nineteenth-century artist and craftsman William Morris called Bibury the most beautiful village in England. Bibury is most famous for its stone-built cottages, called "Arlington Row". On a trip to the Cotswolds, Henry Ford tried to buy the entire row of houses to ship back to Michigan so that he could include them in Greenfield Village. "Arlington Row" has become a film and television location for blockbuster films including Stardust and Bridget Jones's Diary.

B. Bled, Slovenia

One of Slovenia's top tourist attractions, Bled is famous for its ancient castles and picturesque views. Seekers of beauty and the challenges of sport will find here a multitude of opportunities. Walking around the lake, traditional boats, the nearby ski trails, the castle treasures, hunting, fishing, – all these are but fragments of Bled's attraction.

C. Colmar, France

Colmar is renowned for its well preserved old town and its museums. Fondly called "Little Venice", because of canals in the area, this small village looks like it came out of a Disney movie. Colmar's view served for the design of the Japanese animated film Howl's Moving Castle.

D. Folegandros, Greece

Santorini's streets are crowded with admirers, but in the villages on Folegandros, you'll find similar architecture – streets paved in slate, whitewashed buildings decorated with colourful flowers, the occasional Greek Orthodox church with a bright blue dome – without the crowds.

E. Gruyères, Switzerland

Gruyères is an important tourist location in the upper valley of the Saane river. Built in medieval times, the small but beautifully kept tiny village provides fabulous views of the surrounding countryside. The entire town is car-free, and the cobbled main street is an uphill slope to the castle, so remember to wear comfortable shoes.

F. Montrésor, France

Montrésor is famous for preserving the cultural traditions and historical architecture. The village retains its 11th century fortress, with walls, towers and gate intact. Built originally for defensive purposes, the castle at Montrésor was later transformed into a Renaissance Mansion, within the original fortified walls.

G. Pučišća, Croatia

This magnificent village was built almost entirely of local stone. The village has preserved the historical art of stonework, with parents passing the knowledge down to their children. Nowadays a stonemason school is working there. Just walk and admire the houses and the fortress.

London's ethnic populations are not a new phenomenon. London has seen wave after wave of successive migrant populations arrive in the capital and (0) settle in one area, thus creating a mini (1) _____. You can see the culture reflected in the shops, you can hear it in the voices of the people on the street and you can taste it in the food.

One such area that has seen different (2) _____ come and go is Brick Lane in east London, an area which gets its name from, you guessed it – making bricks! It is a densely populated area that was first established by immigrants.

In the early 1700s French Huguenots established themselves in the area that now contains Brick Lane. Jews (3) _____ in the early part of the 20th century as they fled Russia. But it was more (4) _____ that Brick Lane acquired its current inhabitants as later, in the 1960s and 1970s, large numbers of immigrants from Bangladesh established the current "Banglatown".

In Brick Lane now, you will find dozens of "Indian" restaurants. Of course these restaurants are not Indian at all. It is Bangladeshis who run them, the customers either do not know, or do not care that the food is not (5) _____.

So, with this huge Bengali community, it must be a good place to get a curry? You might think so, but in fact, these restaurants offer food for Western tastes. A dish in one restaurant may taste exactly the same as the same (6) _____ in a restaurant down the street. If you want to find more authentic food, look for the places with the small menus, where there are more Islamic customers than Western.

Who will be the immigrants of the future? As different cultures throughout the world continue to be displaced, we find more and more of a diverse mix in a truly (7) _____ city.

4 užduotis. (4 taškai. 1 taškas už kiekvieną teisingą atsakymą.) Perskaitykite informaciją apie interneto balionų projektą ir pažymėkite teisingą atsakymą taip, kaip parodyta pavyzdyje.
0 atvejis – pavyzdys.

BALLOON-POWERED INTERNET FOR EVERYONE

Many of us think of the Internet as a global community. But two-thirds of the world's population does not yet have Internet access. Project Loon is designed to connect rural and remote areas and bring people back online after disasters.

The technology

Project Loon balloons float in the stratosphere, twice as high as airplanes and the weather. In the stratosphere, there are many layers of wind blowing in various directions. Loon balloons go where they're needed by rising or descending into a layer of wind blowing in the desired direction of travel. People can connect to the balloon network directly from their phones and other devices. Balloons send wireless signals back to the global Internet using high-speed links.

How LOON flies

Project Loon balloons travel approximately 20 km above the Earth's surface in the stratosphere. Each layer of wind in the stratosphere varies in speed and direction. Project Loon uses software algorithms to determine where its balloons need to go, then moves each one into a layer of wind blowing in the right direction. By moving with the wind, the balloons can be arranged to form one large communications network. Each balloon can provide connectivity to a ground area about 40 km in diameter using a wireless communications technology.

How LOON is designed

The inflatable* part of the balloon is called a balloon envelope. A well-made balloon envelope is critical for allowing a balloon to last around 100 days in the stratosphere. Loon's balloon envelopes are made from sheets of polyethylene plastic, and they measure fifteen meters wide by twelve meters tall when fully inflated*. When a balloon is ready to be taken out of service, gas is released from the envelope to bring the balloon down to Earth.

When LOON began

Project Loon began in June 2013 with an experimental pilot in New Zealand, where a small group of Project Loon pioneers tested Loon technology. The results of the pilot test, as well as subsequent tests in New Zealand, California's Central Valley and in Northeast Brazil, are being used to improve the technology in preparation for the next stages of the project.

Where LOON is going

Thirty balloons were launched from New Zealand's South Island and beamed Internet to a small group of pilot testers. The pilot test has since expanded to include a greater number of people over a wider area. Looking ahead, Project Loon will continue to expand the pilot, with the goal of establishing a ring of uninterrupted connectivity at latitudes** in the Southern Hemisphere, so that pilot testers in these latitudes can receive continuous service via balloon-powered Internet.

0. Balloons

- A connect people online.
- B float in the stratosphere lower than airplanes.
- C regulate the direction of the wind.

1. Balloons can

- A be moved by software against the wind.
- B determine the speed of the wind.
- C form a large complex network.

2. Balloons are taken down to Earth

- A after letting the gas out.
- B after being fully inflated.
- C after they become fifteen meters wide.

3. The findings of an experimental test in New Zealand will

- A help in planning new projects.
- B help improve the balloon technology.
- C help do the tests in other countries.

4. The final aim of the project is to

- A launch thirty balloons in New Zealand.
- B provide a continuous Internet access south of the equator.
- C share the results with a small group of pioneers.
